

Company Overview

Background

DevFU Pty. Ltd. was formed in mid-2009 after Andrew Whalan, our Managing Director's time with Rio Tinto Coal Australia. Having worked as a contractor previously with several large companies, Andrew returned to the challenge of running his own consultancy firm.

Since that time devFU has demonstrated an ability to deliver on projects, resulting outstanding growth for the company and now has several permanent employees working from offices in the Newcastle CBD.

Our clients are primarily based in Newcastle and the Hunter Valley and range from large mining companies, to small family businesses. Our experience across a variety of sized projects and years of experience in the mining industry allows us to scale our offerings to the specific project requirements.

Services

We offer a range of technical skills and expertise in the following key areas:

- Software Development: Our team is passionate developing custom solutions in partnership with our clients. From excel automation and simple desktop applications to fully featured web based systems. Projects have included a coal and waste reconciliation application that is nearing completion developed in conjunction with a Hunter Valley coal mine and a web-based overtime management system that has been deployed across two sites also located in the Hunter Valley.
- Technical Consulting: With our knowledge of systems integration and what technology is available to our clients we are ideally placed to provide consulting services to mines to provide focused support on projects and guidance on steps forward for key systems. Key projects have included the development, integration and deployment of touch screens in light vehicles and a systems review of a payload management system to provide an increased level of confidence in the system to site management.
- Reporting: A key component of our services provided to clients in the past 12 months has been delivering reporting outputs to assist in business improvement projects and supplement existing reports on site to provide a focus on areas of concern. Projects in this field have included the development of value driver tree reports and reports to support various lean initiatives.

Rates

Our standard rate in 2011 for consulting and development work is $1,400/day exclusive of GST with payment terms of 30 days net. Associated project costs such as consumables, accommodation and travel are by negotiation and as dictated by the requirements of the project.
